Selectmen examine oil cleanup action

Selectman Dan Ballou went into an attack in the selectmen's meeting Monday night. His subject was the oil spill behind the high school. He wanted everything stopped, immediately.

Ballou spoke a total of nine times on the subject. Much of it was repetition. The first occasion was after Chairman Jim Stewart and Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski had been discussing the situation.

Stapczynski had reported that "we test and give the state the results" and that "if the state does not like the results they may shut us down."

Ballou started. For 19 days in May, he said, the town had been paying $2700 a day. There were 17 working days in June. The town, he said, is paying $100,000 for a hole in the ground.

Ballou said the town should have hired a hydrologist first to know what it is doing. It would have cost $10,000, and it would not be town money. "We didn't take that approach."

Last week, he told his fellow selectmen, there were 5000 gallon trucks there, at $60 a day. He recommended that the town stop all action "right now. Bid the job, and get the lowest amount."

"Stop the project! How much are we going to pay down the road?"

We do not need 5,000 gallon rigs every day, he said. He was not blaming Roy McClanahan (building superintendent) nor the town manager. "I do not know how we got Pollution Control!" (the company doing the work) "I want to know tomorrow what we pay Pollution Control."

It was an emergency situation, Stapczynski said. He had consulted town counsel and was advised to call three companies and ask for quotes. Pollution Control, Stapczynski said, had the lowest figures.

"While we are waiting for this study," Ballou charged, "we are paying for those 5,000 gallon rigs!"

"The companies are doing whatever they want to. The emergency part is over. We need to have a study done. It is not prudent to have selectmen or town manager pick the hydrologist."

Selectman Bob Cain pointed out that having well points is prudent, to find out if oil is moving underground in the area. Speaking of large trucks Cain observed that if a man comes in with a small truck he only takes away a little bit. He has to be licensed.

"It is not worthwhile to license a small truck!" Cain said.

We are now getting into the area, Cain observed, of finding out where the contaminants had gone. He and others talked of the various hydrological firms available.

Diane Allan spoke up. She is chairman of the permanent building committee, which is presently preparing to build an addition to the high school.

She had been advised, she said, to have another hydrological firm do a separate study. She had been thinking of Paulding in Acton. She mentioned the name, she said, because others had mentioned the name of Goldbert & Zoino.

Mrs. Allan was much concerned about the stability of the land where the oil spill had taken place. That is the site for the planned cafeteria, she told the selectmen.

Stapczynski took over. Groundwater Technologies, hired by the contractor, a private firm has been testing. Six homes near Wildwood Street have had their wells tested. There are no written reports, but the wells are thought to be as good as new.

Chairman Stewart felt the town was looking for results. Go to the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) and say "this is what we want."

Ballou discussed Peabody and Acton. He was talking of the $2000 a truckload charge. How much are those towns being charged?

"Stop the work right now! The town should know tomorrow! We are spending a hell of a lot of money!"

Rocco DePasquale wanted to know of the contract. Stapczynski said it was a "time and (Continued on Page 12)

Leak location

Work continues at the site of an oil leak at Wilmington High School. Two underground oil tanks were removed last month after a long-term leak was discovered in April. Cleanup has involved the removal of contaminated soil and the pumping of oil and water from the ground. Wilmington selectmen toured the site Tuesday evening.

No more pencils . . .

A bulldozer made short work of the job of demolishing the Curriculum Center in Wilmington Monday morning. Within two hours after the job started, all that remained was a flattened pile of rubble. The 100-year old building was first built as the high school, and later served as an elementary school. Until Prop. 2 1/2, it served as offices for directors in the Wilmington school system. The site will be covered and available for parking during the town's Fourth of July celebration.

The Mildred Rogers School at Silver Lake is also scheduled for demolition this week.

Principal may be chosen tonight

The long search for a principal for Wilmington High School may conclude tonight. The Wilmington School Committee has narrowed its field of candidates and is scheduled to elect its principal at its Wednesday meeting.

In the running for the position are Dr. Allan Aslon, assistant principal of Reading High School, Robert Bray of the Westport Middle School and Carl Fleming, assistant principal of the Plymouth-Carver Regional High School. The candidates were interviewed in a meeting Tuesday night.

After a deadlock last summer on the choice of a principal, the committee appointed Richard DeRosa as acting principal. Earlier this year, when the search was re-activated, the committee vowed to have its selection completed by the end of June.

Board of Appeals increases hearing fees

A new fee rate becomes effective for the Wilmington Board of Appeals on the first of July. There is to be a charge of $60 per case, with the cost of advertising included in that charge. The fee is expected to reimburse the town for its own costs for appeals board hearings.

No member of the board of appeals is paid for his work.

The selectmen and appeals board discussed various problems in a friendly way Monday night. The conversation was started because of the new NYNEX radio telephone tower off Main Street. Somehow some selectmen had missed input on that tower. One of the questions was why could not the tower be up on Hillside Way or some other place, instead of near the center of the town.

Chairman Bruce MacDonald had been in New York on the night of that hearing, last January, he said. No one had appeared in opposition, he had been told. The town manager got due notice of the proceedings.

That brought up a question about telling the selectmen of the hearings ahead of time. Selectman Rocco DePasquale, speaking on the subject, said all the selectmen get a lot of material delivered to their homes each week. Why not appeals board information too?

He has, he said, all the confidence in the world in the appeals board members, but there may be, he added, some reason to revise the bylaws.

The NYNEX tower, the selectmen were told, had a precedent in the Avco radar towers that were erected some years ago in back of the Charles River Breeding Laboratories. The NYNEX tower could not be located other than in the direct site, because that site was a part of a nationwide grid, to use with telephones in automobiles. The entire story had been in the Town Crier the week after the hearing.

Bill Hooper of the planning board was present. He attends all board of appeals hearings. He makes input, as necessary, to present planning board positions. Possibly, he suggested, the selectmen may want to have one of their members attend the hearings too.

Chairman Bruce MacDonald told the selectmen that often the members of his board do not know what is to be presented until the hearings start. "We hear a case the first time when it appears before us."

MacDonald commented that the Wilmington Conservation Commission gets input into the cases, either by writing, or by personal attendance.

Fifty foot lots (i.e. 5,000 square feet) were discussed. The appeals board, it was noted, is hearing such cases now. The trend started about six months ago.

Danny Gillis had a few words to say. He recalled how Rep. Fred F. Cain had "pulled a miracle" years ago in getting a special law for Wilmington on 50 foot lots. There were, he recalled, 345 such lots in town.

"People are calling me up now and getting curious about it." Any 50 foot lot which existed in 1936, he believes, can now be presented for an appeal at properly presented. People want to erase those lots, Gillis said.

TM Buzz Stapczynski remarked that steps had been taken in the right direction, for board of appeals action, but there is need of upgrading the zoning laws and upgrading the board controls.

Arts exhibit on common

The Wilmington Council for the Arts will sponsor its annual art exhibit Saturday, July 7, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Wilmington Common. All professional and non-professional artists and photographers will be welcome. Craft space is available for persons wishing to sell their handwork.

House on a hoist

A new home appeared on Pershing Street in Wilmington this month. Ralph Wallace moved in a modular home to replace a small house he had purchased late last year. The modular home seems to be the final chapter in a strange story. When the seller of the house refused to leave, he cut down a tree on the house.

bits & pieces

Enrolled at Berklee

Linda Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Smith of North Street, Wilmington and William Harmen, son of Mrs. Ruth Camber of Burlington Avenue, are enrolled in the freshman class for 1984 at the Berklee College of Music.

Their curriculum will include course offerings that emphasize improvisation, recording studio techniques, popular vocal arranging, songwriting and the writing of background music for films and other media productions.

Michael Harrington

Michael Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Harrington of Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington will be seen opposite Dorian Harewood (Angle of All My Children) in the upcoming tv miniseries "The Jesse Owens Story." The nationally syndicated production by Paramount Pictures is scheduled to be broadcast during the Summer Olympics (July 8 and 9).

In the film, Michael portrays a Nazi official determined to disqualify the black athlete from events during the 1936 Berlin Games.

Michael was a member of the Wilmington High School Drama Club, and first vice president of the Spotlighters. Known professionally as Michael O'Hara, he now lives in Dallas Texas and is rehearsing "Cloud Nine" under the direction of Ward Baker who created the original and still running hit "The Fantasticks."

CLOCK

THE CLOCKTOK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington

Few clocks are made completely in the U.S. today. While the cabinets are usually made in America, almost all are equipped with an imported works. Seth Thomas, one of the best known and oldest names in clocks, haven't made complete clocks since the 1950's. Most of the mechanisms are imported from West Germany although lesser quality clocks are available from Korea and Japan. The oriental clocks usually require winding monthly rather than weekly.

Chelsea Clock Co. makes some of the finest clocks in the world in a turn-of-the-century factory in Chelsea, Mass. Each piece is carefully manufactured, inspected and tested before release to distributors. Specializing in clocks which strike the ship's bell, they also manufacture hour striking clocks of very high merit.

The Herschede Hall Clock Co. of Mississippi makes large grandfather clocks complete, but are subsequently disassembling cabinet making as their wood supply depletes. Scattered throughout the country, small individual makers perfect fine heirloom-quality clocks with relatively high price tags respective to the craftsmanship executed, but the all American made clock is a rarity today.

Next: How are clocks affected by temperature changes?

Robin Strob weds Thomas Meuse

Robin Lea Strob of Cypress Street, Wilmington recently became the bride of Thomas Meuse of Andover. The Rev. Dayl Hufford performed the 11 a.m. ceremony in the First Congregational Church, Reading.

The bride wore a full length, all satin gown featuring a Victorian collar with tiny satin roses and satin ribbons. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Kimberly Strob served her sister as maid of honor in a dusty rose, full length towns with teacup front, three quarter length sleeves and a pill box hat with pearl facing and netting at the back. She carried a floral cascade.

The bridesmaids were Ruth Fierro, Elaine MacMillan, Karen Zaremba and Darlene Trombly, all close friends of the bride. They were attired in dusty rose gowns styled like that worn by the maid of honor with matching pill box hats.

Tina Den Harind acted as flower girl.

Phil D'Annolfo served as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Doug Clements, Bob Fierro, Bob Zaremba, Chris Zaremba and Joshua Meuse.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Casa di Fiore, Wilmington, where Martha Sumner circulated the guest book.

For traveling the new Mrs. Meuse chose a grey and white double breasted jacket with matching skirt and big brimmed black hat with black earrings and necklace.

Following a wedding trip to the Caribbean, Montego Bay, Jamaica, W.I. the couple is now living in Andover.

The bride graduated from Wilmington with the class of 1980 and is presently employed as office manager for Prosthodontist in Wakefield. Her husband is a 1973 graduate of Andover High School, presently self employed in North Reading.

Stop smoking plan at Regional Health Center

The American Lung Association 20-day self-help plan to quit smoking will be offered at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington this summer.

Richard Silveria, community health educator, will offer the program on Monday evenings June 25 through July 30 (no class July 23) from 7 to 8:30 in a supportive group environment. The course includes lectures, group discussions, films, brochures and two booklets from the American Lung Association.

The success rate of the program depends upon one's personal commitment to quitting and assuming responsibility for one's own health.

Homework is essential to success. Minimal reading and written exercises are required during the 20-day period.

Mr. Silveria graduated with honors from the University of Lowell with a B.S. in Health Education. He is a trained stop smoking facilitator by the American Lung Association and the American Cancer Society.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567.

The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate - Symmes Health Services.

Summer courses offered at Shawsheen Tech

Shawsheen Valley Technical High School will again hold summer school for all students living in the districts of Bedford, Billerica, Burlington, Tewksbury and Wilmington grades nine through twelve and adults. Students who attend private schools are also eligible to attend. Students and adults living outside the district will be admitted on a space available basis with a slight additional cost.

Lorraine Weinstein, summer session coordinator has announced the following programs:

Various academic makeup courses are included in the summer program. The following courses are offered at a cost of $55 per course of two hours each, five days per week for five weeks from July 9 through August 10: Algebra I and II, biology, business math, chemistry, English, nine through 12 general math, geometry, physical education, social studies, U.S. history, world history.

A special pre-college program in chemistry for the student entering nursing and colleges is being offered. It will cover concepts such as: Atoms and elements, balancing of chemical equations, molarity and redox equations. This includes a lab, and will meet every day from 8:30 to 12:30 a.m. for five weeks at a cost of $95, plus material and text fee.

An S.A.T. (math and English) college board review course will be offered both July 9 through July 20 or July 23 through August 3. The objective of this specialized course is to prepare the student who is college bound to achieve the highest possible scores. Actual S.A.T.'s from recent years will be given for practice. This course will benefit those who would like to raise their previous scores and those who have never taken the S.A.T.'s. Cost: $25-20 hours plus cost of text. Early registration is recommended.

Remedial reading: the program will be designed to give the students practice in basic phonics and work attack skills with an emphasis on comprehension and vocabulary building.

The students will be tested and appraised as to their reading strengths and weaknesses. Daily programs, individually patterned toward the student overcoming one's poor reading areas will be ongoing and maintained throughout this course.

Seniors who will graduate this June and have had little or no exposure to trades or occupational skills are invited to participate so that they can learn the fundamentals of a trade this summer.

The following vocational courses are offered at cost of $65 for four weeks, 9 a.m. to noon, five days a week from July 9 through August 3:

Air conditioning and refrigeration: This course provides both shop and related instruction in basic refrigeration concepts and electrical control fundamentals, metering devices, heat pumps and heat reclamation. This requires a lab fee.

Auto Body: An introduction to the basic fundamentals of auto body repair and refinishing, covering, masking (taping oxy-acetylene welding, sand papering, power tool usage, etc.). Students may work on their own vehicles. Extra charge for materials.

Automotive repair: Basic skills necessary to perform a basic engine tune-up, preventive maintenance and minor repairs. Students may work on their own cars. Extra charge for materials.

Baking: This course is designed to train students in the fundamental skills related to the preparation of baked goods.

Business technology: (Typing, accounting, shorthand). Includes typewriting, (beginning to advanced), accounting, the principles of basic bookkeeping encompassing the entire accounting cycle and shorthand, addresses and reading, writing, dictation and transcription of shorthand. Note: Typing may be taken separately.

Carpentry: Basic wood working skills including tools and their use. Students may work on their own projects. Extra charge for materials.

Commercial art: This course includes an introduction to careers in art, basic layout, technical illustrating, typography, perspective, and basic elements of design. Basic creative media are explored (water colors, scratchboard, media ink). Here is an opportunity for the student to receive help to assemble a suitable portfolio.

Data processing: This course addresses not only an introduction to basic programming language but also the writing the flow charts of programs including variables, decisions, control, input-output, looping, arrays, sub-routines and functions.

Diesel: This course addresses the principles of and working experience with two and four stroke engines, internal combustion theory including gasoline and LPG applications pertaining to trucks and industrial equipment, material free.

Electrical: The planning and circuitry of residential wiring in shop and related classroom environments is taught. The National Electric Code Book is a required text.

Electronics: This introductory course in electronics through D.C. circuit analysis using OHM's, watts, and Kirchhoff's laws. The purchase of a lab manual is required.

Machine shop: Basic principles to include setup operations of lathes and milling machines, tool sharpening, and such operations as drilling, turning, taper-turning, etc.

Maintenance mechanical: Basics in caring for your home; glazing, screening, weather stripping, basic plumbing, wiring, roofing, painting sheet rock, taping joints, wall papering, tile work, etc. Material fee required.

Masonry: The student will be introduced to the fundamental use of the mason's hand tools and machinery. Hands on training includes building of brick and concrete block walls.

Metal fabrication - welding: Fundamentals of oxyacetylene and arc welding and cutting. Material is free.

Plumbing: This course will include methods of installing various types of pipe, fittings, cuttings and valves; principles of venting, sewerage disposal methods and water supply systems. Materials are free.

Recreation vehicles - small engines: Addresses basic knowledge and skill required to operate, service and maintain small two and four cycle engines. Learn how to repair your own lawnmowers and snow blowers.

Technical drafting: To include the fundamentals of basic construction, multi-view drawing and dimensioning, formats, etc. and the basic care of tools. Small lab fee.

Word processing: Hands on training and supervised practice on the Wang system. Ability to type 45 words per minute required. This course prepares for an entry level job as a word processor.

Tuition for all courses is payable at the time of registration and is not refundable unless class is cancelled. A minimum enrollment is required. There is a $5 non refundable registration charge per registrant.

Enrollment is open to students completing grade seven and above; adults are invited to participate as well. An additional $10 charge will be made applicants residing out of the district.

Students and adults desiring information and registration forms should contact Ms. Lorraine Weinstein, summer school coordinator at 667-2111.

Rescue in tight quarters

A truck accident on Route 93 last Wednesday morning presented Wilmington firefighters with a very challenging rescue situation. James Hardy, 36, of Malden was trapped in the cab of a truck which rammed into the back of another truck, which had slowed to avoid an obstacle on the highway. The rescue effort took an hour and twenty minutes, during which Hardy was given intravenous injections and oxygen. Hardy was rushed to Lawrence General Hospital by helicopter. ## letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I think that a fair percentage of the people who waste time and space in town papers by writing provincial, naive, cliché, super-patriot, and God and Christian letters wear horse blinders and are a bit flaky. This opinion perhaps includes me also as occasionally I do get the urge to waste time, thought and postage to respond.

I sometimes feel that the Town Crier suffers from terminal dullness, however, the letters of the past two weeks have touched upon a whole compendium of interesting subjects of which the vast knowledge of the writers has truly humbled me.

Some of the subjects touched upon: civil rights, the First Amendment, "Town Fathers" and the "Founding Fathers," poor lazy Henry David Thoreau (who incidentally influenced Tolstoy, Gandhi, and Martin Luther King), George Orwell, God Christians, the Bible (including quotations), the Sabbath, false prophets, concentration camps, criminals, child abuse, drugs, money, rebellion, the possible nuclear attack on Wilmington, and God's blessing of Avco.

What was it that Tiny Tim said, "or was it 'Tiptoe Through the Tulips?' I occasionally get confused. The Good Shepherd and Ralph Waldo Emerson were also mentioned both of whom I consider friends of mine along with the lazy Henry.

I suggest that a new annual award be given in Wilmington, and that the Town Crier have exclusive rights to determine who will receive it. The annual blither award to that writer who can say the least and touch on the most irrelevant subjects while doing.

I wish to be the first to try to qualify even though at the moment my peers overwhelm me.

Sincerely,
George Webster

You win. —Larz

Dear Larz:

We would like to thank the members of the Wilmington Housing Authority for the wonderful job that they are doing here at Deming Way.

Much of the praise should go to Bill Stroh (vice chairman of W.H.A.) and the two maintenance men for the improvements that have been made here.

We feel they deserve public recognition for giving so much of their time and energy in order to make our homes and surroundings more pleasant for us to live in.

Thank you gentlemen for a job well done!!

Alicia Surette, Jessie Rogers

Sewer commissioners request update

An update in costs and construction of a sewer on Cedar Street was requested by the Water and Sewer Commissioners of Wilmington in their meeting of June 21.

The sewer may be constructed to serve the apartments in the housing for the elderly project at Deming Way. Recent news from the Wilmington Housing Authority reports that there may be funds for another 35 apartments.

The commissioners can construct a "deep" sewer, or another nearer the surface, depending on whether or not the sewer will serve just the housing project, or will also serve residents of Cedar street and Harris Street. Cost updates are being requested for both projects.

The commissioners have also requested a cost estimate of a sewer on Main Street to service the proposed skating rink. The sewer would require a 12 inch main about 300 feet long, to connect with the present sewer near Wiser Street. The project would be subject to engineering determinations on there being a sufficient difference in elevations for such a sewer.

Central Catholic honor students

Several Tewksbury students recently were given academic awards and were named to the third term honor roll at Central Catholic High School in Lawrence.

Receiving an academic scholarship of $100, awarded to the top three students in each year level based upon class rank, was Robert Langlois, sophomore.

Given distinguished honors, for having no grade below a grade of 'A', were: Gary Snoman, junior; and Robert Langlois, sophomore.

Given high honors, for having no grade below a grade of 'B' plus, were: William Krzesinski, sophomore; and John Austin and Gerald Kobelski, freshmen.

Given honors, for having no grade below a grade of 'B' with the single exception of one grade of 'C' plus, were: David Austin, Joseph Censullo, Steven Duncan, Jerome Lbadini, Brian McDonough, Wayne Sheehan, and Steven Sledz, juniors; and Jeremy Duncan, Robert Hunt, and Michael Lahberte, freshmen.

Lemonade stand

Many small businessmen believe that in order to succeed, you've got to have a gimmick. The attraction to this lemonade stand on Linda Road in North Wilmington is clown faces on the proprietors - Amanda Farkas, Brian Farkas and Lori Strow. Price is another strategy. You can have one glass for 10 cents, or two for 15 cents.

Open for business

Tony and Denise Gentile of Sherburne Place, Wilmington cut the cake on Friday night, at the grand opening of her new beauty shop in Wilmington Center. She is in business under the name of Beauty Depot.

Williamson, Froton and Field

Wilmington's Big Three reunites after 22 years

Twenty-two years ago this month, three young and promising high school pitchers hurled the Wilmington Wildcats to the State Finals at Boston College.

After having taken their respective shots at college and professional baseball stardom, those same three pitchers are now married with families and holding down so-called 'main-stream' jobs.

But twenty-two years later, the love for the game is still very much there for Stelio's players Jeff Williamson, Rick Froton and Kevin Field, reunited as teammates and still lugging the leather in the Wilmington Adult Softball League.

Williamson, Froton and Field are often mentioned around Wilmington as three of the greatest baseball players to wear the WHS blue.

It wasn't until Jim Stewart, Steve Woods, Bob Woods, Tom Stewart, and Bill Blaisdell came along many years later to cop a state championship that a Wilmington baseball nine rivaled the Williamson-Froton-Field collection.

The high school careers of the three players intertwined. Then came college and a couple of minor league playing opportunities.

As fate would have it, not one of three ever made it to the bigs, but that is no chink in what is one solid block of Wilmington High School baseball armor.

Little League rivals
Jeff, Kevin and Rick go back as far as their Wilmington Little League playing days, with Jeff and Kevin playing for the Tigers and Rick for the Indians.

Froton remembers losing a no-hitter to the Tigers in a contest in which he chalked up 18 strikeouts. In that loss, Field walked and then stole second, third and home for the 1-0 Tigers' victory.

Williamson's illness opens door for Field

Williamson enjoyed an outstanding high school career under coach Joe Gilligan. All three men played for Gilligan and rank him as their best coach ever.

Unfortunately for Jeff, mononucleosis forced him to the sidelines during his junior season. Williamson's misfortune opened the door for his teammate Field however, as the youngster launched his pitching career, replacing Williamson in the Wildcats' rotation.

A shot with the Birds
Jeff signed a contract with the Baltimore Orioles after a great four years at Springfield College. He then played four years in the Orioles' minor league system, finishing up his career in Triple A.

Some misfortune struck Williamson again at this stage of his career, as an injury, plus the fact that he was unable to crack Baltimore's super stable of major league pitchers, caused the former WHS ace to call it quits.

There is little doubt that

Big Three

Former Wilmington High School pitching stars (l-r) Jeff Williamson, Rick Froton and Kevin Field are together again, playing for Stelio's in the Wilmington Softball League.

Williamson would have had his shot at the major leagues in many other organizations that were not as pitching deep as the Birds. He was fortunate in that he was part of a class outfit in Baltimore for several seasons.

Today Jeff owns the Little Peach on Route 38 in Tewksbury. He is married to Tewksbury's Kristine Aker, and they currently reside on Manning Street in Wilmington.

Froton posts incredible WHS record

Rick Froton posted an incredible 23-1 record at Wilmington High School with those vaunted early 60's clubs.

Relying on a blazing fastball and an exceptional curve, Froton hurled two no-hitters during his high school career and signed as a bonus baby with the Boston Red Sox in August of 1962.

He played two seasons with the Wellsboro Red Sox, a Boston minor league affiliate at the time.

Arm injury ends career

Froton was coasting along with an impressive 7-0 record during his second season at Wellsboro when an arm injury ended his promising pitching career.

Stays active with youth
Froton took his knowledge of athletics to the young people of Wilmington, becoming involved in the town's tee-ball and youth hockey programs. He has also played softball and umpired for many years.

A Polaroid Corporation technician for the past 17 years, Rick is married to the former Dale Anderson of Waltham. The High Street, Wilmington couple has three children, Rick, Jr., Eric and Nicole.

Rick is presently co-manager of Stelio's Restaurant with Jack Callendrello.

Field keyed State Final charge

Kevin Field co-captained the WHS team to the State Finals in 1962, hurling victories over Newburyport and Cathedral.

Kevin was a two-sport letter winner at Wilmington, cracking the football and baseball lineups.

Undefeated college career

Field went on to Northeastern University, where he was undefeated for his college career. In his senior season he recorded key wins over Boston College (two), Holy Cross, Providence and Tufts University.

His victories over Boston College and Colby at Fenway Park sent Northeastern to the College World Series in Omaha, Nebraska. It was there against Arizona State that he suffered his first defeat of the season.

Cousin offers tips

Field went on to hurl in the Intercity League for Wilmington and Wakefield, receiving pitching tips from his cousin, ex-Boston Red Sox hurler Bill Monbouquette.

Kevin, still an avid tennis player (see story on page 10), is married to the former Gayle Sherwood of Burlington and resides with their youngsters Heidi and Kevin Jr. at 28 Miller Road in Wilmington.

Field has been employed as a Burlington High School English instructor for the past 18 years. He also directs an After School Program in Concord and serves as an Emergency Medical Technician with the Wilmington Fire Department.

Something to shoot for Williamson, Froton and Field firmly established a tradition of baseball excellence at Wilmington High School.

Despite those inevitable losing seasons that strike a program, WHS baseball has some very lofty records to shoot for thanks largely to these former players who were among the best this state has ever seen.

Tigers bump Indians

Tigers 10 Indians 2
Great pitching was turned in by John McGrath, with good, aggressive baserunning from Shane Hartwell, J. Piazza, M. Lopes and J. McGrath. Good starting pitching by Indian Brian Harris was combined with great defense from first baseman Kevin Favvori.

Tigers 4 Red Sox 3
A running, diving catch by George Driscoll with two outs and the tying run on third in the bottom of the seventh inning saved the game for the Tigers.

Thanks to the unselfish sportsmanship of Shawn Hartwell, Jeffy Driscoll, Mike Gaglione and Tom Bryant and the overall team defense, the Tigers were able to squeak by the Red Sox. John McGrath had four hits and drove in four runs for the Tigers. Andy Parr pitched an excellent game with 13 strikeouts.

The Red Sox were led by the hitting of Mike O'Brien, Steve Edmonds and Anthony Barletta with two apiece. Richie Barletta, Paul Buzzota and David Simmons made fine catches in the outfield.

Minor League

Braves 14 Pirates 5
The Pirates' offense was led by Mike Haley, Jim Miella and Bryant Falzone.

For the Braves, the hitting was supplied by Chris Johnson (double, single) and Jackie Sullivan (double, single). Good pitching was supplied by Anthony Bonarrigo and Christian Armata in relief. John Martins supplied a solid single to take the lead.

Braves 15 Reds 7
The Reds' offense was sparked by George Orfaly with two singles and good defensive play, while Joey Catanzano and Eric Greeth played well in the field.

The Braves were led by the hitting of Christian Armata (home run, triple, single) and timely hits by John Martins and Chris Johnson. Danny Godin pitched three innings, giving up one run to help keep the Braves in the game.

Mets 5 Giants 5
For the Mets, sound hitting was turned in by Jim Pelman, Steve Greco, Andre Paradis (double) and Kevin DiGiovanni (triple). Steady pitching from Eric Heselton and Daryl Grant aided the cause. The heads-up fielding by Joe Wright and Jim Hersom was outstanding.

For the Giants, outstanding pitching was turned in by Robert Baronski and Bob Palazzi. The hitting came from Ray Metcalf, Roy Gardner and Donald Wheeler.

Giants 8 Cardinals 6
Brian Oxman and Bobby Palazzi pitched well for the Giants, while the hitting came from Andy Blackburn (homerun), Greg Gardner and Kelly Olson.

For the Cardinals, Judy O'Connell and Matt McManus pitched well backed up by the hitting of Joey Valentino, Jimmy DeMarco and Tommy Ducey.

Astros 18 Dodgers 10
Bobby Flemming and Jesse Cooper pitched well for the Astros, who were aided by homeruns from M. Botte and A. Ventre and a triple from M. Venture.

For the Dodgers, Matt LaCava, Matt Maninuos and Tom Sheehan all had two hits. Derek Twohig belted a homerun.

Dodgers 15 Mets 12
For the Dodgers, good hitting was turned in by Tommy Sheehan, Jason Montobano and Jamie Pote, aided by the fine pitching of Matt LaCava. Bill Alessandro, Brian Kinnear and Kevin DiGiovanni supplied the hitting and Daryl Grant the pitching for the Mets.

Farm League
Expos 14 Padres 12
Jason Early pitched excellent baseball for three innings, while the attack was led by Derek Fullerton, Jimmy McHugh, Timmy O'Dea and Sean Polian.

Expos 18 Blue Jays 12
Jason Early and Jimmy McHugh pitched very well for the Expos. The hitting attack for the Expos was led by Jason Early, Sean Polian and Derek Fullerton. Kyle Eaton pitched well for the Bluejays.

Major League
White Sox 11 Orioles 10
The White Sox held off a strong Orioles' attack behind the solid relief pitching of Sean DeMaggio and the timely hitting of Scott Tuxbury, Phil Fenton and Eric Maciejewski.

Mark Bobek led the Orioles attack with three hits, followed by Danny Santos, Mike Morris, and Derek Stokes.

Paul Wheeler and Scott Tuxbury turned in excellent defensive games at third.

The deadline for all youth sports copy is Monday at 6 p.m.

Hawks stun Eagles for title, 5-0

The Hawks, coached by Abby Picano and assistant coach Mike Piccolo, recently won the under-14 Tewksbury Youth Soccer League championship game for the second consecutive year by stunning the Eagles, 5-0 in the title tilt.

Keith Blum opened the scoring early for the Hawks off a great pass from Stephen Picano.

Kevin Fowler put the Hawks up 2-0, with great team effort from John Bonifanti, Kim Carroll then put the team up to 3-0 with a great pass from Brian Linnehan.

Kevin Fowler came right back to get his second goal of the game and sent the Hawks up by 4-0. On a super corner kick from Bob Foster to Brian Linnehan, Brian headed the ball right into the net for the Hawks' fifth goal.

This was truly a team effort. Art Piccolo was outstanding in net. Great defensive help came from Billy Gosse, Mark Duquette, Paul Lussier, Laura Boyden, Brian Kelly and Mary Williamson.

The Hawks' final record for this season was 8-1-1.

Astros split doubleheader

Coach Jim Kennedy's WILMAC Astros recently garnered a split in an Eastern Mass. doubleheader, defeating Central Massachusetts, 5-2 after dropping the first contest, 8-7. In other recent action, the Astros tied Woburn, 5-5 and dropped a tough 8-7 decision to MVB.

Copy request

Town Crier Sports Editor Rick Cooke requests that all sports copy submitted be printed clearly or typed, using first and last names of all players please.

It often times is difficult to read handwriting and confusing when first names of players are omitted.

Scoresheets are now available at the Town Crier office.

North tops South, 20-14

Ayer's Jamie Morris rushed 16 times for 154 yards and Woburn's Jim Mogauero scored a pair of touchdowns, as the North squad edged the South, 20-14 in the sixth annual Shriners' All-Star Football Classic played Saturday night before an enthusiastic crowd at Boston College.

Morris, who will be playing for the University of Michigan in the fall, broke older brother Larry's 1981 Shrine game record of 116 yards.

Mogauero became the first player to ever score two touchdowns in the Shrine Classic, while also snapping the most points scored mark with 12.

Tewksbury tackle Tom Ogden played a considerable amount of the game in the offensive line, providing solid blocking for Morris, Mogauero and Winthrop standout Steve Stathere.

Scanlon directs

Wilmington High School coach Dick Scanlon will be directing baseball clinics this summer for the Wilmington Recreation Department. For details, see the recreation calendar on page 11.

Youth hockey coaches

Wilmington Youth Hockey is looking for qualified coaches in several different levels for the fall season.

If interested, please forward a resume to P.O. Box 33, Wilmington, Mass. 01887. Include your name, address, telephone number and coaching (youth or adult) experience.

Wilmington Tennis Club

Williams tops mens' ladder

The Wilmington Tennis Club held its first annual member-guest tournament this past weekend, with good weather and excellent tennis play. The tourney was an outstanding success, with Kevin Field and his Burlington guest Mike Phelan prevailing over 11 other teams.

Kevin has been a top singles and doubles player for many years in the club, while Mike is a tennis coach at Burlington High School. The finals were played Sunday morning at the Woburn Street School, while earlier matches were played at the high school. Some of the club's guests remarked that playing at the high school was a lot like Wimbledon, both have grass growing on the courts.

Barry Cahill and his guest from Winchester, David Campbell, played strong and steady tennis this weekend and took Kevin and Mike to a second set tie-breaker, but lost in the finals match, 6-4, 7-6. The winners received a $50 gift certificate as well as trophies.

Two other top teams eliminated by the finalists were the team of Patrick Hoffman and his guest Jim Wooster of Reading, and Chris Arciero and his guest Tony Luccia. Hoffman and Wooster lost to Field and Phelan in the semis, 7-5, 6-3.

The most exciting match of the weekend was the semifinal match between Cahill-Campbell and Arciero-Luccia. Cahill-Campbell won in 5-7, 7-6, 7-6, with both tie-breakers going to 5-4. Even more discouraging to Chris and Tony, was the fact that they were up 5-1 in games in the second set and 5-3 in the third. They did have the toughest draw in the tourney, having to play 88 games and eight sets on Saturday. They beat strong teams of Sean O'Beirne, Jr., and guest Jim Murray first and then Dave Webster and guest Don Nett in the quarterfinals.

The consolation finals were won by the strong team of Tim Curran and his guest Rich Eriksen of Beverly.

Match play on the club's ladders started off a little slower this year, but people are starting to dust off their racquets and play. Bobby Williams is still number one on the men's singles ladder, but got a few scares from Pat Hoffman and Kevin Field. Bobby better stop sampling his own good cooking at the 99 Restaurant. Steven Cutone and Bobby Seville have moved up to the big time from the junior ladder to the men's. Steven is playing well and could be in the top 10 by the end of the summer.

Youngsters Steven Toto and Brian Gillespie have moved into places one and two on the junior ladder, but could face some tough competition from newcomers Chris Wright and Doug Michaud.

Judy Conant is still number one on the women's ladder. The steady play of Irene Hoffman and Janet Cahill has moved them up to the second and third spots on the women's ladder.

The mixed doubles ladder has seen some fine action, with Tony and Judy Page holding onto first place. The team of Jerry Bishop - Ben Waruszyla and Barry - Janet Cahill are playing well, but they all will have to watch out for Lisa and Steven Cutone, the tandem that has just come on the ladder with an impressive win over Bruce and Judy Conant.

The club would like to thank all the volunteers who helped out with the tennis clinic the past three weeks, as well as the member-guest tournament coordinators: Patrick Hoffman, Chris Arciero, Barry Cahill, Paul Greco, Jerry Bishop, Irene Hoffman, Dave Webster, Bobby Williams, Lisa Cutone, Tony Page and Tom O'Malley. The club would also like to thank physical education director Jim Gillis for his help in the use of the WHS courts.

The club is actively pursuing new members. Any Wilmington resident interested in playing tennis is urged to call Chris Arciero at 657-7069.

Tennis Club champs

Wilmington's Kevin Field and playing partner Mike Phelan survived some tough competition to win their Wilmington Tennis Club title this past week. The pair got past 11 teams. See story this page.

Tewksbury tennis clinic

The Tewksbury Recreation Department is sponsoring a tennis program for Tewksbury girls and boys ages nine through 17. Lessons will be held from 10 a.m. to noon Monday and Thursday for nine-10 year old players and on Wednesday and Friday mornings for 11-17 year old players.

The program will begin on July 9. Each player will need a tennis racket and proof of age to take part. The program will conclude in August with a tournament for all participants.

Questions should be directed to the Recreation Department at 851-3161.

recreation calendar

Hampton Beach trips

The Wilmington Recreation Department's popular weekly bus excursions to Hampton Beach started this week. They run each Tuesday throughout much of the summer. Cost is $4.00. Call the Recreation Office for information.

Sport clinics

The Wilmington Recreation Department is offering a skill development program for boys and girls ages eight to 12 this summer. The week long instructional clinics will include baseball, softball, basketball and soccer.

Dick Scanlon and Howie Lafaver will supervise the program. Call Ron Swasey at 658-4170 for details.

Wildcat Park opens July 2

The Wilmington Recreation Department will begin its summer playground on Monday, July 2 and run through Friday, August 17. The Glen Road Recreation area (behind the town hall) will be the daily meeting place for this seven week program.

All children between the ages of six and 12 who wish to take part in this summer's activities must register at the high school on Monday July 2 or Tuesday July 3 between 9 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Field trips include New England Aquarium, Red Sox game, miniature golf, bowling, pool days, Police Association Beach Day, Cabot Street Theatre, to name a few. The playground activities include a scavenger hunt, bicycle obstacle course, tournaments, arts and crafts, kickball, relays and more.

Leaders Sharon Carbone, Janet Crowley and Bill Turner invite all Wildcaters between grades one and six to join them in what should be a summer of fun times. Volunteer teens are more than welcome too.

Glen Road, not WHS

The Recreation Department's summer playground program will be held at the Glen Road Recreation area rather than at the high school as anticipated.

Boys and girls between the ages of six and 12 are invited to attend the program. The schedule begins Monday, July 2 and runs for seven weeks Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 a.m.

Registration takes place at the playground next week. There is no charge for the program.

The fifth annual July 4 celebration road race will be held Thursday evening, July 5.

The gun will sound at 6 p.m. by the common. Cost is $4.00, or $5.00 for post entry. Wilmington residents and those employed in Wilmington are eligible. The course is five miles long. There will be trophies and running shoes as prizes.

Register at the Recreation Office in the town hall between 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Tewksbury Youth Soccer

Comets stop Clippers, 3-0

Tewksbury Under 12
Games played June 16
Comets 3 Clippers 0

Power forward Frank Kushmerek scored first for the Comets before Marc Silva scored from his halfback position with Ed Henderson tallying the winning goal.

Great defense by teammates Ken Lambert and Manny Espinola in goal helped prevent the Clippers from scoring, but the Clippers never gave up, with fine performances turned in by Billy Carroll and Tracy Tempia at halfback, Chad Previte and Mike Donovan on defense and John Tempia doing super work in net.

Falcons 2 Astros 1

Robert Stanley netted the first goal for the Falcons on a beautiful pass from right wing Richard Treem, then Treem scored on a pass from Jimmy Williams.

Helping them out were Terri Ricardo and Gretchen Weitz, displaying speed and hustle. Talented Ricky Killian scored the lone goal for the Astros, with excellent play by halfbacks Jennifer Peach and Kristin Cox.

Endicott College softball

King earns varsity letter

Lynette A. King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry King of Hopkins Street, Wilmington, has been awarded a varsity letter in softball from Endicott College in Beverly.

King, a photography major, batted .286 and had an 80.2 defensive average as the starting catcher for the 11-6 Endicott team.

Coach Steve Woodcock is counting heavily on the skills of King in the 1985 season as she is one of eight returning freshman starters from the 1984 campaign.

Lynette is a member of the yearbook staff and participates in the international and ski clubs.

defenseman Keith Weber and forward Mike Martel.

Cougars 3 Wildcats 2

Three goals by three forwards for the Cougars-Sal Reitano, Cam McLeod and Greg Ray, with great backup by Mike Ryan at halfback Jimmy Hackett at forward position.

Brian Hooper rocketed one in for the Wildcats and Steven Sills ditto, with untiring midfield effort by Tommy Callahan and fullbacks Sam Gross and Scott Marino on the final line of defense.

Dynamos 5 Cougars 0

A hat trick for one of the Dynamos front line players, Patrick Frend, another by hustling Brian Smith and yet another by hard-working Billy Flynn, with great all around by Scott Ludwig at both halfback and fullback and fine work by Randy Nawn in net.

Despite the score, the Spartans fine team effort was capped by Chris Sands' goaltending. Sean Corrigan's and Dawn DeVau's strong defense and Mike Perkins and Jason Connolly with good all-around play.

Wilmington Pop Warner registration

The Wilmington Pop Warner Football Organization will hold player registration Wednesday, July 4 on the town common from 5 to 8 p.m.

A registration table will be set up on the common during the 4th of July festivities for all boys from eight to 14 years of age who wish to take part in the 1984 Pop Warner gridiron season.

All youngsters must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, and must take along a copy of their birth certificate at the time of registration.

Registration fee for the upcoming season will be $25 per child; $35 for two children; and $45 for three or more children per family.

All youngsters who were members of a Pop Warner team during the 1983 season are reminded that they must register again this year. Also, birth certificates will be required from returning players.

Pop Warner coaches and staff members will be on hand to provide information about registration procedure and to answer questions regarding program plans for the 1984 Wilmington Pop Warner season.

Coach records 150th win

Callan helps spark Bowdoin

The 150th win of Bowdoin College lacrosse coach Mort LaPointe's 15 year career was a memorable one that was helped along by a talented Wilmington athlete. For the third time in the last four seasons and the second year in a row, the Polar Bears won the ECAC Division III New England championship Sunday, May 6, defeating the top ranked Middlebury Panthers, 10-7 in Vermont to extend LaPointe's career record to 150-55 (.732).

Junior Dave Callan (11-6-17) of Wilmington had one goal and one assist. Senior Chris Schenk of Boston scored the other Bowdoin goal.

But, as has been the case for the last two years, it was goaltender Dan Cisneros, a senior from Denver who made all the difference in the tournament. After an 18 save performance in the Polar Bears' 9-2 semifinal win over Bates, Cisneros came back with 27 stops against Middlebury, rivaling his outstanding performance in the 1983 title drive when he made 46 saves in two playoff games.

"Danny was outstanding," noted LaPointe. "The entire defense played well, but Danny made the stops when the game was on the line and took control in the fourth period. He is as good as any goalie in the country in Division III."

Cisneros finished the season with 120 saves and a .702 save percentage. He also posted a 6.77 goals against mark. The Polar Bears allowed only 5.82 goals per game, while scoring an average of 11.27.

Trailing Lyne in the scoring column in the final statistics are Semple (15-20-35), senior co-captain Steve Swindell of Concord, Mass (18-8-26), Cushman (11-14-25), Kratz (17-7-24), Callan (11-6-17) and Schenk (10-5-15).

Most remarkable about the Polar Bears' 9-2 season (10-0 vs Division III) is that it was supposedly a rebuilding season. "We did lose eight of 11 starters from last year," said LaPointe, "and I knew we would have to work harder than in the past to be successful. To win another title over a good Middlebury team is a highlight."

The 1984 title game was a continuation of the outstanding rivalry which has developed between Bowdoin and Middlebury, perennially the top two teams in New England Division III play. Since 1981 the Polar Bears have won three of the team's four meetings, all of which have been in the ECAC tournament, and all of which have been played in Vermont.

Pop Warner coaches

The Wilmington Pop Warner Youth Football Board of Directors is accepting applications for coaching positions at all levels of play, including head coaches, assistants and team managers for both football teams as well as cheerleading squads for the upcoming 1984 Pop Warner gridiron season.

All those interested in coaching or assisting the Pop Warner youngsters on the gridiron should contact Joe Murphy at 657-7582, while those interested in assisting at the cheerleading level should contact Irene Dechellis at 658-4590.

The Wilmington Chargers will field three intertown teams for the 1984 season, the A, B and C traveling squads, while the D instructional program for first year players will compete in intramural play within the town as well as against D teams from surrounding towns.

Erin Hughes, John Petrosius exchange vows

Erin Patrice Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hughes of Royal Street, Wilmington became the bride of John Petrosius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Petrosius of Pratt Road, Squantum on May 20.

The Rev. Father Robert Knapp, chaplain of Regis College and the Rev. Fr. Thomas Reynolds performed the early evening ceremony before the altar of St. Thomas Church. Renditions by organist Patricia Romeo of North Reading and soloist Philip Arsenault of Wilmington enhanced the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was radiant in an off-the-shoulder gown of chiffon over peau de soie accented with alencon lace and pearls, and bishop sleeves. Her veil fell from a wreath of white silk flowers and pearls with a fingertip double veil accented with pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses, pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Nancy Marinucci of Roslindale served as maid of honor in a full length gown of rose chiffon layered over peau de soie with a satin ribbon sash and a wreath of rose silk flowers and pearls with a short tulle veil. She carried a nosegay of light pink and white carnations and baby's breath and light pink satin ribbon.

The bride's attendants included Sandra Hughes, of Wilmington and Shirley Ann Hughes, of Malden, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Arleeta Chiminello of Stoughton, sister of the groom and Mrs. Patricia Jackson, of Wilmington, friend of the bride.

They were attired in light pink gowns with matching headpieces and carried bouquets of pink flowers with rose ribbons. Edward Petrosius Jr. of Quincy served his brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Steven Petrosius of Squantum, brother of the bride; Robert Chiminello of Stoughton, brother-in-law of the groom; David Allen of Quincy and Arthur Gregory of Pennsylvania, friends of the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Sons of Italy Hall in Wilmington where Martha Petrosius of Quincy, sister-in-law of the groom circulated the guestbook.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hughes chose a long gown of chiffon with a cranberry skirt and mauve mock overjacket featuring trim of silver beading on the bodice and cuffs.

The mother of the groom was attired in a long mauve gown with pleated skirt and a chiffon overlay on the bodice.

The grandmother of the groom wore a lilac crepe de chine gown.

For traveling the new Mrs. Petrosius chose a white lace over pink silk dress with a pink satin ribbon sash.

Following wedding trip to Paris, the couple is now living in Reading.

The bride was educated in Wilmington schools and is currently employed by the Massachusetts Property Underwriting Association.

Her husband, educated in North Quincy High School and Daniel Webster College is now working as a claims adjuster for the Lexington Insurance Company.

Wilmington police news

Trailbike complaints are becoming more numerous. Last week the Wilmington police received seven such complaints.

There were 10 accidents, six arrests and six disturbances. The Wilmington police were twice called on to assist other departments.

Six cases of larceny were reported, two stolen vehicles, and four cases of suspicious activity. There was one trespassing complaint.

There were 22 alarms, one case of assault and battery and two of breaking and entering. Two cases of domestic problems and two of liquor related problems were entered. Two stolen vehicles were recovered, there were four cases of threats being made, two traffic complaints and nine cases of vandalism.

James E. Greenhalge, 26, of Lowell was arrested last Wednesday by Officer Neville, on a capias issued by the state police, Andover. He was turned over to the Andover State Police for a court appearance.

Officer Mark Jepson, Thursday evening arrested John Ryan of 71 Aldrich Road, charging him with assault and battery on a police officer. Officer Steve LaRivee arrested Michael Chase, 19, of Lexington Street, charging him with possession of alcohol. Both were released on bail.

Friday evening, acting on a Malden Court default warrant, officer Larry Redding arrested John Thebeau of 6 Suncrest Ave, Wilmington. He was later bailed for an appearance in Malden Court on a charge of non support.

Raymond Jamieson, 18, of Larkspur Rd., Billerica was arrested Sunday evening by Officer Steve Parsons, and charged with possession of Class D and Class B substances. He was bailed for a court appearance.

On Sunday morning the U Haul Company on Main Street reported a break-in sometime during the night. Three all-terrain recreation vehicles were taken. The three wheel vehicles were driven out of the shop in back to the railroad from where they were driven to Butters Row. Apparently they were loaded onto a truck near Butters Row.

Early Tuesday morning Officer Frank Hancock arrested a local man on Middlesex Avenue. George Hooper, 45, of Allen Park Drive was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and failure to keep to the right. He was arraigned in Woburn District Court Tuesday.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be conducted by the Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency ("MIFA") on Wednesday, July 11, 1984 at 10:00 in the morning at the offices of MIFA, 125 Pearl Street, Boston, Massachusetts, on the proposal of John T. Spinelli that the MIFA approve a project to be located on a 4.11 acre parcel of land located at North Wilmington Industrial Park, corner of Jonspin Road and Andover Street, and consisting generally of the construction on said parcel of an approximately 30,000 square foot industrial research and development building of brick, stone and steel and the estimated cost of such project, to be owned initially by John T. Spinelli, in an amount not less than $1,680,000, and authorize the financing of such costs by the issuance by MIFA, acting under and pursuant to Massachusetts General Laws Chapters 23A and 40D, of industrial development revenue bonds in an aggregate principal amount not to exceed $1,680,000, which bonds will not constitute a debt or pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Did oil spread under building?

any under other parts of the building.

A drill crew sunk a test hole near the southeast corner of the gymnasium Tuesday morning. The job was completed by noon, and no trace of oil was found. The drill went down to a depth of 30 feet.

Pollution Control, Unlimited of Plymouth, Mass. is the firm which has been doing the excavation. In charge is a man named Steve Turner.

Turner told the Town Crier that the oil laden sand has been hauled away in 18 wheel trucks, to a destination in Rhode Island. The cost is $2,000 a load. There is no charge unless loaded. The last truckload of sand left for Providence on June 14.

At the present time Turner has a small crew vacuuming the area where the oil was spilled. There are two men, an engineer and a laborer. A professional hydrologist was also present, Robert Rein of East Boston, but he was not on the payroll.

The drilling crew was from the hydrological firm of Groundwater, Unlimited, of Needham. There was an engineer in addition to the crew.

material" contract, not written. Rocco suggested a daily log be kept.

Stapczynski said he would not comment on the things Ballou spoke of. He would like to have Pollution Control look at it. Rocco suggested that the Wilmington Water Department have a look. "We have experts there!"

Rocco commented on the big truck and small truck discussion. He could understand the reason for a big truck. He wondered whether there were other approaches to be taken. He was certain that Dan (Ballou) and Diane Allan must have done their homework.

Chairman Stewart said the board should meet with DEQE and McClanahan as soon as possible. He did not need to "take more without knowing."

Ballou: "Every day we are throwing money away. Municipalities are not accustomed to this kind of problem. With Goldberg & Zoino, in my opinion, we will do our best. We are doing things wrong at $2700 a day!"

Bob Doucette suggested having firms asked to come out for a day. Ballou would have the companies come out - independent companies. Jim Stewart thought it best to go through a government agency. Possibly, he said, the DEQE "is forcing us to pump that oil." When the DEQE says something, Stewart added, "that's the proper steps."

Rocco agreed. The town manage should contact a government agency. Then he could call in a second company.

Twice Ballou spoke up while this was going on. "Put a stop to it right now" was his message.

Stewart: "If the DEQE says we can do it."

Ballou spoke at length of hydrological controls. Cain said "they" are pumping out oil and "maybe that's what they should do." There was talk of the possibility of oil being under the football field, several hundred feet away, and the site of the septic beds.

Buzz Stapczynski did not believe the town would not get things from the DEQE. He said there is no evidence that the contractor was doing anything unjust, but he would consider an independent study - an independent firm to do the work.

There will be a meeting sometime this week, he promised "tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday."

The selectmen toured the site on Tuesday evening, without making any decision.

Special friends needed at Berry Rehabilitation Center

Special volunteers are needed to befriend a mentally retarded resident of the John T. Berry Rehabilitation Center located in North Reading. Berry is the state residential facility serving the needs of over ninety mentally retarded individuals from northeastern Massachusetts. Many Berry residents have little or no active family involvement. Individuals who become a one-to-one volunteer can expect to be an important factor in the life of a mentally retarded person.

Some John T. Berry residents who would greatly benefit from a one-to-one relationship with a volunteer are:

A 38 year old woman is eagerly waiting for a volunteer. A mature woman is needed to act as a role model while helping this mentally retarded woman explore her own feelings.

A Spanish speaking volunteer is needed for a 31 year old man. The volunteer will help this individual with participation in leisure time activities.

A female volunteer is needed to befriend a hearing impaired mentally retarded woman. Ideally, the volunteer should possess at least one of the following two qualifications: sign language experience or previous work experience with a hearing impaired individual.

Volunteers at the Berry Center are not asked to invest large amounts of time, rather to provide a consistent effort. Volunteer matches are based upon the following factors: experience, age, skills, interests and time available. Social workers provide excellent on-site supervision and are available to answer specific questions about the volunteers' mentally retarded match.

Individuals interested in obtaining more information about volunteer opportunities are encouraged to phone 727-9550, extensions 557 or 536, Monday through Saturday.

One experience with the Tall Ships

A faithful reader dropped by the other day to tell us about a disastrous experience he had had, and to ask if there was something we could do to help him. First, the disastrous experience:

On Sunday, June 3rd, at 10:30 in the morning, John, his mother and sister, and two friends, all from Woburn, drove to Quincy harbor to board a cruise ship that was supposed to take them out onto Boston harbor to view the parade of Tall Ships that was scheduled for that afternoon.

Saturday had been rainy, and the first day of the two day nautical event had been cancelled. On Sunday the sky cleared, and like thousands of anxious spectators, John and his family and friends were looking forward to seeing the much publicized parade of Tall Ships.

"But the trip didn't turn out quite the way we had expected," John indicated.

The first kink in their plans occurred on the way to the pier. "We got lost," John told us. "We were so close, yet so far away. We took a wrong turn at Neponset Circle, and got into a minor car accident. An elderly woman rammed us from behind."

Despite the inauspicious beginning, though, everybody remained in pretty good spirits as they headed toward Quincy harbor. They arrived at the parking lot to the major cruise line company at ten minutes before noon.

"This was where I began to suspect that the day wasn't going to be good," John said. "After spending a hundred and twenty-five dollars for five tickets, they actually had the nerve to charge us five bucks to park our car!" he exclaimed.

"They were cramping as many cars as they could into this parking lot," he continued, "blocking everybody in. There was no way out once you were parked."

Being blocked in and having to pay to boot were minor inconveniences, so long as everybody departed together, which was the cruise line's intention. At least that was what John thought.

He and his family and friends gathered their things from the trunk of the car and started for the nearby dock. But when they got there, there was no boat to take them out to sea.

John recalled, "We ended up waiting almost an hour before somebody from the cruise line said anything. Finally this guy said the boat would arrive in one hour. One hour! That would make it two hours before we actually got to sea."

John explained that the several hundred people on the pier began to show signs of irritability, especially when that second hour went by and no boat showed up. He said, "This guy kept telling us that the boat would be in at anytime. But there was still no sign of it at all."

By now it was 2:30. In the meantime, a boat belonging to another cruise line arrived on the opposite side of the pier. "That boat emptied out and then just sat there," John remarked. "Then another one of their boats came in. People coming off the second boat were saying on their way by us that the trip wasn't worth it, that only about a half dozen small ships were in Boston harbor. That just made everybody on our side of the pier even more angry."

After the second boat unloaded, the representative from the cruise line on which John had contacted to go announced that the two boats that had just docked would take everybody out. "The boat we were supposed to go on never did show up," John pointed out.

He went on to say that the crowd anxiously began to board the two boats on the other side of the pier. "In about fifteen minutes the two boats were filled." There was just one problem, which John described: "There were about

One family learns to deal with handicaps

By JIM ROUILLARD

Norma Powers, of Butters Row, Wilmington, has long known what it means to live with handicaps — though most of the handicaps are not her own. Yet daily, long-term exposure to what others might find intolerable has not taken away her abiding sense of humor. That sense of humor, in fact, Norma's household, only two, Debbie, the oldest, and Chris, the youngest, were born without disability or handicap of some kind.

Norma and Frank Powers, with numerous progeny, four cats and apparently endless dogs, live just a pebble's throw from the old Middlesex Canal, in a house that Norma said used to be half a

"He didn't like to wear the wooden leg," Norma said, "because it wasn't very comfortable. One night he went to a game at Boston Garden with a crutch, and left the wooden leg at home."

"I was a little nervous, being alone, except for two babies, in the house at the edge of deep woods, with dusk coming on."

"I was puttering around, trying to allay my edginess, when I looked up. There, framed in the screen of the back door, and staring at me, appeared the floating head of an old man, with gray, fly-away hair and scraggly beard."

"I screamed, grabbed my husband's wooden leg, and tore out the back door after that poor old man, who let out a yelp, his eyes big as balloons, and took off." Norma said she still can't imagine what the intruder must have thought as she careened after him like some berserk Valkyrie wielding her terrible weapon of doom. The old man lurched into the woods, and Norma, her calm restored, returned to the house and replaced the leg by the TV set.

Norma said the old man looked exactly like the late character actor Gabby Hayes, whom her children don't even remember, and that later she heard on the radio that a man had wandered away from Tewksbury State Hospital that week and had "become confused." She still wonders how much her actions may have added to his confusion.

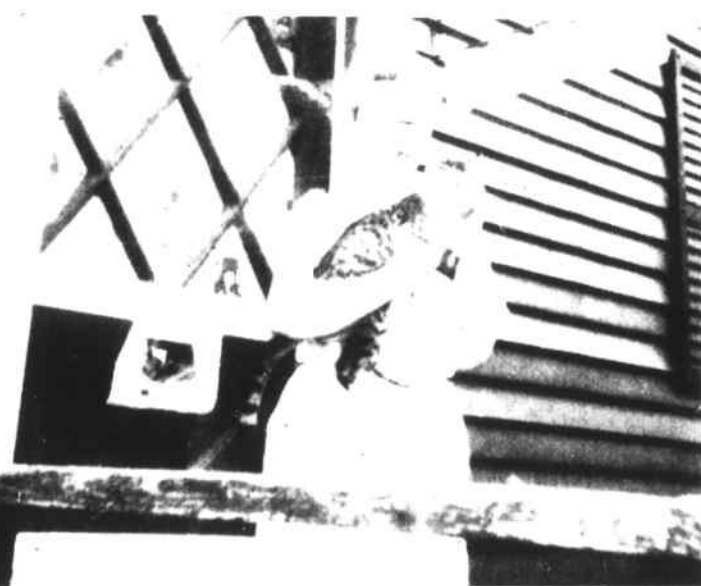

Norma said Joe Manuel had a job at nearby Raytheon, one of the first companies to hire the handicapped — and that though his disability was by no means a joke, the family quickly developed a sense of humor about the wooden leg. "Joe kidded that his wooden leg would make a good lamp. I'd hide the leg if I wanted to keep him at home. Sometimes I'd forget where I'd hidden it, and he'd be late for work because none of us could find it."

"Sometimes the kids would hide the leg, if they'd done something wrong. They thought he couldn't catch them to punish them. But it never worked, he always got them in the end."

has often been the primary source of her ability to cope, she said, reflecting on past incidents which range from being called fat in sign language to hiding her late husband's wooden leg to keep him home nights.

hotel. To reach it, you leave Route 38 and cross one of those tiny, ancient, narrow railroad bridges that arch like so many cats' spines over the tracks in Woburn, Wilmington, Tewksbury and Lowell.

Then, she said, about 80 or 90 years ago, the building was neatly divided, each half placed on its own parcel of land, and different families took up residence.

Norma and Frank and their families, the Manuels, Powers and various pets, are relative newcomers to Butters Row, by New England standards, since they've been there a mere 16 years. But Norma's heritage is thoroughly Middlesex County. A Waltham native, she grew up on John Street in Reading, and has lived in Wilmington since her first marriage.

It was in Wilmington that Norma first discovered more than one use for a wooden leg. Her first husband, Joe Manuel, had lost his leg as a result of a hunting accident.

Fair in Foxboro

Ten days of fabulous family fun are in store for visitors to the first annual New England Foxboro Racing Fair which opened

Friday afternoon, June 22, at 3 p.m., at Sullivan Stadium-Fairgrounds on Route

1 in Foxboro. The Fair will continue daily through July 1.

Admission to the Midway of this new tradition of family fun is free, with a charge for the featured attractions in the stadium, according to Mical Chamberlain, president of Stadium Management Corporation.

"Our mission is to bring the best family type entertainment to Sullivan Stadium," Chamberlain said in making the announcement about the Fair.

The Fair will feature uproarious musical performances of "Alvin and the Chipmunks and The Magic Camera," top singing stars such as Judy Collins and Franki Valli, international circus performers, helicopter and elephant rides, 5 Man Parachute Jump, Hills Mills Clown Band, Home & Modern Living Show, James E. Strates Midway, The Coasters, The Platters, The Crystals, harness racing, and other top-flight exciting attractions. There will be continuous daily activity at the Fair.

The Fair will open daily at 3 p.m. except on Saturdays and Sundays. The fun will get underway at noon on Saturday (June 30) and at 1 p.m. on Sunday (July 1).

More than 20 performances of star-studded attractions headline the entertainment in the Stadium during the 10 days. Alvin and the Chipmunks and the Magic Camera will be featured twice daily at 4 and 7:30 p.m. through Wednesday, June 27.

The Circus joined the entertainment fare June 25 and will continue through the remainder of the Fair. Singer Frankie Valli will appear on Thursday night, June 28, and vocalist Judy Collins will bring her charms on Saturday night, June 30.

The Fair will close at midnight on Sunday, July 1.

Ant colonies are female societies, and all worker ants are female, says National Geographic. The only job of the drone males, when they mature, is to mate briefly with a young queen ant.

As Mount Vesuvius erupted in A.D. 79, Pliny the Elder, scientist and commander of the fleet at Misenum, sailed toward the volcano to rescue friends and investigate the phenomenon. He died at Stabiae in the attempt, according to National Geographic.

Woodcraft winners

Woodcraft Supply Corporation and its esteemed judges, Robert L. Buyer, Paul McCarthy, and Sam G. Cherone wish to announce the winners of the first Woodcraft Carving Show. Sixty-two carvers participated, and ninety-nine carvings were on display at Woodcraft's retail store located in Woburn.

A $100.00 Woodcraft gift certificate and the Best of Show ribbon was awarded to Arthur H. Marois for his piece entitled, "Indian Bust." Leslie Barton was awarded a $100.00 gift certificate and the Most Popular ribbon for her piece entitled, "Grouse Feather."

The most popular carving was judged by the viewing public.

A $25.00 gift certificate and a blue ribbon were awarded to the 1st place contestants, and ribbons were presented to the 2nd, 3rd, and the Honorable Mention winners. There were eight classes of carving involved.

Local winners were: Rita Galvin of Reading, 2nd place (Nativity Set) in "Realistic Human in the Round"; Joseph Benenante of Woburn, 3rd place (Briar Pipe) in "Unspecified Carvings"; Mary Lou Morris of Tewksbury, 2nd place (Fisherman) in "Beginners or Novice."

Despite devastating rains

'Local grown' comes to market

With all the bad weather Massachusetts experienced in recent weeks, it's hard to believe locally grown salad greens are coming to market in abundance now is the time to buy a variety of "Massachusetts grown" salad greens.

The week-long deluge, which hit New England late May to early June, produced a devastating affect on crops and farmland. Hardest hit was the Connecticut River Valley where a large potato and vegetable crop spent most of the week submerged under water. Much of the area reported a total loss of crops but many growers are already replanting.

When shopping at farmers markets, roadside stands and local supermarkets, look for varieties grown in Massachusetts. Butterhead lettuce, such as Boston and Bibb, has a slightly flattened head which is softer and smaller than that of Iceberg. Its leaves are light green and tender with a buttery flavor.

Looseleaf or "bunching" lettuces such as Green Leaf, Salad Bowl or red leaf varieties have smooth, soft leaves and vary in color depending on the variety.

Finally the familiar iceberg, a member of the crisphead lettuce family; this type has a large, solid head with light green to dark green leaves.

Other native produce items at the markets now are scallions, radishes, asparagus, rhubarb, strawberries, zucchini and summer squash.

The best quality greens have a good healthy color and fresh-looking, tender leaves. Lettuce greens are a great source of fiber and vitamin A. Greens other than spinach provide a good amount of calcium. One way to boost the amount of calcium in your meal is to combine lettuce greens with dairy products.

Dairy foods like sour cream and yogurt make cool and creamy salad dressings. For more ideas, try some of these combinations.

I have attended countless major league clinics during my 40 years of baseball including those of such superstars as Stan Musial, Roger Hornsby, Billy Williams, John Pesky, Phil Cavarretta and others. One of the most impressive of these is John Doherty, whom I have had the pleasure of listening to and watching his demonstrations of baseball theories and exercises. While I have great respect for the above mentioned great hitters and on-structure, John Doherty in my opinion does a better and more comprehensive job. John's theories are easily understood and accepted. His work method goes very well and his big strength is being able to demonstrate with such ease and professionalism.

A baleen whale is distinguished from a toothed whale by having baleen, or whalebone, as part of its mouth structure. National Geographic points out. Baleen is a flexible material growing from the whale's upper jaw, perfect for trapping krill — its tiny food — by the bushel.

Woodcraft winners

Woodcraft Supply Corporation and its esteemed judges, Robert L. Buyer, Paul McCarthy, and Sam G. Cherone wish to announce the winners of the first Woodcraft Carving Show. Sixty-two carvers participated, and ninety-nine carvings were on display at Woodcraft's retail store located in Woburn.

A $100.00 Woodcraft gift certificate and the Best of Show ribbon was awarded to Arthur H. Marois for his piece entitled, "Indian Bust." Leslie Barton was awarded a $100.00 gift certificate and the Most Popular ribbon for her piece entitled, "Grouse Feather."

The most popular carving was judged by the viewing public. A $25.00 gift certificate and a blue ribbon were awarded to the 1st place contestants, and ribbons were presented to the 2nd, 3rd, and the Honorable Mention winners. There were eight classes of carving involved.

Local winners were: Rita Galvin of Reading, 2nd place (Nativity Set) in "Realistic Human in the Round"; Joseph Benenante of Woburn, 3rd place (Briar Pipe) in "Unspecified Carvings"; Mary Lou Morris of Tewksbury, 2nd place (Fisherman) in "Beginners or Novice."

Despite devastating rains

'Local grown' comes to market

With all the bad weather Massachusetts experienced in recent weeks, it's hard to believe locally grown salad greens are coming to market in abundance now is the time to buy a variety of "Massachusetts grown" salad greens.

The week-long deluge, which hit New England late May to early June, produced a devastating affect on crops and farmland. Hardest hit was the Connecticut River Valley where a large potato and vegetable crop spent most of the week submerged under water. Much of the area reported a total loss of crops but many growers are already replanting.

When shopping at farmers markets, roadside stands and local supermarkets, look for varieties grown in Massachusetts. Butterhead lettuce, such as Boston and Bibb, has a slightly flattened head which is softer and smaller than that of iceberg. Its leaves are light green and tender with a buttery flavor.

Looseleaf or "bunching" lettuces such as Green leaf, Salad Bowl or red leaf varieties have smooth, soft leaves and vary in color depending on the variety.

Finally the familiar iceberg, a member of the crisphead lettuce family; this type has a large, solid head with light green to dark green leaves.

Other native produce items at the markets now are scallions, radishes, asparagus, rhubarb, strawberries, zucchini and summer squash.

The best quality greens have a good healthy color and fresh-looking, tender leaves. Lettuce greens are a great source of fiber and vitamin A. Greens other than spinach provide a good amount of calcium. One way to boost the amount of calcium in your meal is to combine lettuce greens with dairy products.

Dairy foods like sour cream and yogurt make cool and creamy salad dressings. For more ideas, try some of these combinations:

cheese. Creamy cottage cheese spiced up by adding crispy, tangy vegetables either diced, sliced, grated or chopped.

I have attended countless major league clinics during my 30 years of baseball including those of such superstars as Stan Musial, Roger Hornsby, Billy Williams, John Peck, Phil Cavaretta and others. One of the most impressive of these is John Doherty, whom I have had the pleasure of listening to and watching his demonstrations of baseball theories and exercises. While I have great respect for the above mentioned great hitters and in-structors, John Doherty in my opinion does a better and more comprehensive job. John's theories are easily understood and accepted. His easy manner goes very well and his leg strength is being able to demonstrate with such ease and professionalism.

A family deals with handicaps

and Norma Powers is no stranger to obstacles.

Her second child, Michael Manuel, was profoundly deaf at birth, he has 18 percent hearing in one ear, 15 percent in the other. Michael's sister Cathy is also termed profoundly deaf, with an approximate 90 percent hearing loss.

Both Michael and Cathy Manuel suffer from sensory neural loss, Norma said, which is also less accurately known as "nerve deafness." Norma added that it's easy for people, even the mother of deaf children, to forget a person is deaf. Cathy, who has an easy and infectious smile, said she often has to ask people to take their hands away from their mouths when they're talking, so she can read their lips. Cathy's hearing ear dog Maggie pronounced McGee, who napped nearby during much of the interview, provides an additional assist to Cathy. Maggie is trained to both voice commands and sign language, Cathy said. "Flash her the sign language for 'love' and she'll give you her paw."

Cathy, who demonstrated Maggie's usefulness at the recent Hearing Awareness Exposition at Boston's Government Center, has volunteered with handicap organizations since she was 11. She said the Hearing Ear Dog Program of Massachusetts, headquartered in West Boylston, raised and trained the two-year-old Maggie. The program, according to Cathy and Norma, was begun some eight years ago, and was the first of its kind in the nation. They said Maggie, whose training cost $1800, was paid for by the Town of Wilmington Community Fund.

Maggie is a gentle, docile and affectionate combination of Labrador retriever and bull terrier. Her sleek coat is mostly coal-black, but she has a flash of white above her nose, a white bib and neat white front paws like short gloves. Her golden harness signifies that she is a hearing ear dog, Cathy said, to alert motorists and others that Maggie is guiding a hearing-impaired person.

Norma's fourth child, Steven, was born totally deaf, she said, and his handicap was the hardest for her to bear. "But we tried to treat him like a normal child, and I stress that every parent of a handicapped child should try to treat the child as a normal person," she said. She is supported in this view by Cleveland, Ohio, Otolologist Charles Kinney, M.D., who urges parents to "Accept your deaf child for what he is and love him for what he is; make him feel that he is loved and wanted and not different," and "Have the light on your face when you talk to your child."

Norma had the light on her face when she spoke of Steven, who died in 1978: "I used to weigh more than 300 pounds," she said, which is hard to imagine when you meet the present Norma Powers. "And one of the few words Steven could say was 'fat.' He would say it — and he sure learned the sign language for it. He was a big boy, too, so we'd call each other fat, in speech, reading lips and sign language, back and forth, back and forth."

"When we could communicate, Steven and I had so many laughs. One day he came home from confirmation class, laughing so hard the tears were streaming from his eyes. He finally made me understand that the children had been playing in one of the classrooms, horsing around, and Steven had filled his mouth with water, and hidden behind the door. When someone came through the door, Steven was startled and, thinking it was one of the other kids he let fly with the water — full in the face of the assistant minister."

The remaining children in Norma and Frank's household, she said, are Ann Marie, their adoptive daughter, who has dyslexia, impairment of the ability to read, and learning disabilities, and Frank, Jr., also with learning disabilities. Yet, despite them, Norma said Frank, Jr., who graduated from high school this year, recently wrote her from Fort Benning, Georgia, where he is undergoing basic training in the United States Army. "In two recent tests, mid-cycle basics," she said, "Frank was the only person out of 155 who took the tests, to receive a perfect mark on both."

"With Frank, Jr., as with my natural children," Norma said, "I've always tried to emphasize that attitude can overcome handicap."

Norma herself has not been free of handicaps. Her excessive weight, which she has trimmed by more than 160 pounds, was one handicap she has surmounted. She also has a ruptured disc.

Obstacles are things to be overcome, according to Dr. Howe. In 1837, he discovered a little girl in Hanover, N. H., Laura Bridgman, who was blind, deaf, and could not speak. He brought her to South Boston to be educated. At first, Dr. Howe wrote, his success with Laura was "about as great as teaching a very knowing dog," when, suddenly, the moment came when she realized she could herself communicate ideas, "and at once her countenance lighted up with a human expression; it was no longer a dog or a parrot — it was an immortal spirit, eagerly seizing upon a new link with other spirits!...I saw that the great obstacle was overcome, and that henceforward nothing but patient and persevering, plain and straightforward efforts were to be used."

Patience and perseverance, plain and straightforward efforts have apparently been Norma Powers' staple for years, in encouraging the children in her household to learn, to speak, to strive, to win. The people in the house on Butters Row which was once half a hotel have seen obstacles — and they have overcome them — thanks in large part to the Manuels' and the Powers' enduring sense of humor.

sixty of us still left behind. At that point everybody was really becoming irate."

Many of them began to demand their money back. John added, "We wanted to know what the guy from the cruise line was going to do with us. He told us he didn't have the authority to refund money."

The guy did offer an alternative. "It was to wait until four-fifteen for the next boat to come in, or pay an additional ten bucks and go out for the fireworks display that was scheduled for mid-week in Boston harbor."

The alternative suggestion didn't settle too well with any of the people left behind. "Everybody really started to get on the parking lot attendant at this point," John said. "Finally he couldn't handle the reaction, so he took off, leaving another guy, who turned out to be the first guy's brother, in charge."

John proceeded to speak with the brother, attempting to remain calm about the whole thing. "He gave us the name of a company official. After that we decided to leave."

Many of the others opted to do the same. But now there was one more obstacle in their way. "We realized we couldn't go anywhere," John noted. "Most everybody was blocked in by other cars, cars owned by people who were on the two boats out at sea."

John was one of the lucky ones, and he explained why: "I had only one car blocking my car. So five other guys and myself picked it up and moved it out of the way."

They also helped two young women by moving a small foreign car that was preventing them from leaving. But that was all the six of them could do. "Nearly everybody else had to wait another couple of hours till the boats returned before they could get out," John said.

Now a possible solution: On Tuesday John phoned the cruise line and asked to speak with the official whose name he'd gotten from the parking lot attendant.

"He said absolutely no refund," John told us. "We could use the tickets that week only. The reason he gave for the mix-up was rainy weather on Saturday had cancelled that day's cruises. He said they had to honor those ticket holders on Sunday, knowing they wouldn't have enough room for the Sunday ticket holders."

We spoke with an official for the cruise line. He confirmed what John had told us, that their policy is not to make cash refunds. They emphasized that they even state this in their television ads.

We then suggested that John contact Paula Lyons, the crackerjack consumer reporter on WCVB-TV. He did, and she said to call the City of Boston Consumer Affairs and Licensing Board to find out the legal parameters of such a policy.

John picked it up from there: "They took down my complaint. They told me they had received numerous complaints from other irate ticket holders. They said they'd get back to me later."

Meanwhile, we checked with an attorney to see if we could find out what legal recourse John and his family and friends have, and learned that tickets are only non-refundable in the event that the ticket holder fails to show up.

We apprised John of this, once he'd heard back from the Boston Consumer and Licensing Board. "They recommended that we take the cruise line to small claims court," he informed us.

John and his family and friends, along with numerous other ticket holders whose tickets were not honored on that Sunday, are currently pursuing that legal channel.

We'll let your readers know what becomes of this unusual case.

VA ups rate to 14 per.

The Veterans Administration announced an increase in its maximum home loan interest rate — from 13½ percent to 14 percent, effective Tuesday, May 29, 1984.

The last change in the interest rate occurred on May 8, 1984, when it was increased by one-half percent to 13½ percent.

The VA action also increased the maximum rates by one-half percent to 14½ percent for graduated payment mortgages, 16 percent for manufactured housing loans and 15½ percent for manufactured housing lots, combination manufactured home, and lot loans, and home improvement loans.

The rate change does not affect existing loans, whose interest rate remains the same for the life of the agreement.

VA home loans can be used to purchase, construct, alter, improve, repair or refinance a home. This includes the purchase of condominiums and mobile homes, with or without a lot.

TURNAROUND CRUISE

The world's oldest commissioned warship will be the center of attention at noon on July 4 during the 1984 Boston Harbor holiday festivities.

The 186-year-old frigate USS Constitution will leave its berth at the Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston National Historical Park at 10:30 a.m. on Independence Day, July 4, for its annual 2½-hour "Turnaround Cruise." It will make its cruise in Boston Harbor and render a 21-gun salute to the nation in observance of Independence Day at noon while abeam of Castle Island.

The Constitution is turned around and berthed in the opposite direction once a year so its masts and "iron sides" weather evenly.

A colorful flotilla will escort the Constitution on its return to the Charlestown Navy Yard. Owners of small private craft who will be boating and viewing the cruise from the water should be aware that the Captain of the Port, Boston, will be establishing a safety zone in the inner harbor from Buoy R "6" off of Castle Island to Pier 7 in Charlestown. No vessel will be allowed in this safety zone between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. on July 4 without permission of the Captain of the Port, Boston. In addition, there will be a moving safety zone of 100 yards around the USS Constitution throughout her cruise. These restrictions will be enforced by several vessels acting on behalf of the Captain of the Port, including Coast Guard, Coast Guard Auxiliary, Boston Harbor Master and MDC Police units.

The best public viewing spots for the cruise can be found at Waterfront Park and Castle Island.

FIELD DAY

A "Home Gardener's Field Day" will be held at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Saturday, July 28, 1984 from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. This field day has been organized to educate gardeners on different methods, current varieties and techniques for home food production and grounds maintenance, according to Thurston Handley, Home Horticulture Specialist with the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Workshops, held in French Hall, will cover how to arrange summer flowers from the home garden, insects and diseases in the vegetable garden, how to shop for a rotary tiller and reasons why lawns turn brown. A food preservation clinic is planned, and tours of the French Hall Greenhouse Range, vegetable and flower trial gardens and perennial gardens have been arranged.

To pre-register, or for more information, call or write: Kathy Carroll, Cooperative Extension Service, French Hall, UMass, Amherst, Ma. 01003, telephone (413) 545-0895. There is no charge for this excellent opportunity to learn how to produce a healthy and vigorous garden, sponsored by the Massachusetts Cooperative Extension Service and the Department of Plant and Soil Sciences at the University of Massachusetts.

Refreshments are always appreciated. 7:00 P.M. ## ANTIQUES FAIR

Antiques, home-made food, and nearby sandy beaches again promise to lure holiday travellers to the Wareham Historical Society's 8th Annual Antiques Fair on July 4th. The Fair was chosen by the Boston Globe in 1981 as one of its Calendar choices for the holiday.

The site will again be the Wareham Town Green, surrounded by the 17th Century Fearing Tavern Museum, the Old Town Hall, the Old Meeting House, and other historic structures. The Tremont Nail Company, and its famous company store, are within walking distance.

Public beaches, tennis courts, fishing, an 18-hole golf course and boat cruises on the Cape Cod Canal are all available within the Town during the day. Wareham has 54 miles of beaches on Buzzards Bay and Onset Bay.

Antique dealers will include Robert E. Mower of Marion, Janet Smith of Kingston, Dr. Francis Walcott of Acushnet, Judith Hill of Osterville, Rita Candee of Wareham, the Hefrons of Wrentham, Nina Moore of Portsmouth, Rhode Island, Cape Cod Shopper of Centerville and many others. Antique dealers may still register by writing to Box 211, Wareham, Ma. 02571.

Fair hours are from 10:00 A.M. to 4:00 P.M. and the admission of $1.00 includes the tour of the Fearing Tavern Museum.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

The farm animals were so grateful for being treated so kindly that they decided to show in some way their appreciation to their kind-hearted farmer. At a meeting, suggestions were asked about the matter. A chicken said that a fine breakfast of bacon and eggs would be a fitting expression of their love for the farmer. "Now, wait a minute!" exclaimed the pig. "For you, my fine-feathered friend, it will represent only a meager contribution—but with me, it will be a total commitment!"

That, folks, seems to me to be the norm today — people asking others to make a full commitment while they give token support.

I remember a lieutenant who ordered the company to attack and then retreat. He then said, "and because I'm a little lame — I'll start going back now."

Frank Mazzoni and I were schoolmates years ago in Wilmington. Frank suggested taking a short-cut to school one morning. We crossed a field and then climbed over a fence — where I ripped the seat of my pants. I asked Frank for a safety pin but he didn't have one and we continued on to school anyway — late. Frank went in the classroom ahead of me while I tried to sneak in without being seen — but Miss Sullivan, in a loud voice, called out, "Just a minute, Anthony, I see you're a little behind this morning!" Well, you have never seen a more embarrassed young man as I blurted out, "You wouldn't have, Miss Sullivan, if Frankie had a safety pin!"

I thank Mr. Fred Neilson for introducing me to so many wonderful residents of Wilmington and Tewksbury through the medium of the pages of the Town Crier.

Congratulations to all graduates of schools, colleges and universities in the Middlesex East Area.

I didn't have a college education. My father asked me what I was learning in my freshman year. "Oh, I'm learning algebra." "What's that?" "Like Pi R square," I answered. That was the end of my education because he thundered, "I'm breaking my back on this farm to send you to school and they're teaching you that? 'Why everyone knows pies ain't square—they're round, cornbread—they're square.'"

Folks, don't look under the hood of your car if you're faint-hearted. The maze of wires, cables and solenoids are understood only by experts, MIT engineers, mission control personnel, or a few mechanics who I know, like John McCurtin, Vinny Conte, Kenny Binding and the Holland Bros. of Woburn.

A doctor asked Vinny why some auto mechanics charge almost as much as the medical profession for their services. "Well," responded Vinny, "with all due respects, doctor, you are called upon to diagnose the troubles and problems of the same identical model since Adam and Eve, while we automobile mechanics must keep abreast of and learn about several new models every year since the Model T."

Unless you're a professional gardener, the small back yard variety type of gardens are called victory gardens. That's because no matter how much tender loving care the plants receive, the bugs, beetles, worms, birds and woodchucks generally are victorious.

My daughter Kathy is getting married in September to a fine young man named Barry Hanly from South Carolina. She came to me in tears yesterday saying that she just discovered that Barry does not believe in Hell. I calmed Kathy down as best I could then told her, "Marry him anyway; between your mother and I we will convince him that there is one."

Congratulations to firefighter Bill Lopez of Wilmington who received the "Good Citizenship Medal" for saving the lives of two persons. The award was given by Mass. Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at the Wayside Inn in Sudbury. Truthfully, I never heard of the Sons of the American Revolution, I thought all they had were daughters.

I was asked two years ago to write an article on Longevity, so I asked this gentleman sitting on a park bench in Woburn, how old he was and to what he attributed his long life. "I'm 89 years old, I never drink or smoke." I then moved over to another bench and asked the same question. "I'm 92 years old," replied this kind old man, "I worked hard, never stayed up late and never married." I thought I'd ask one more old-timer and then write my story. I picked the oldest looking in the park and asked him to tell me something about himself. "Well," he said, "I never refused a drink, I smoke three packs a day, and wine, women and song has been my motto all my life." "Wow," I said to myself, I've got a real story here — but then I had to ask, "tell me sir, how old are you?" He put a shaking hand on my shoulder and whispered, "I'm twenty-nine years old!"

A clergyman was lost in Woburn Square, so he asked a young lad, "can you tell me the way to the post office." The boy politely gave directions, the clergyman thanked him and said, "if you come to church Sunday I'll show you the way to Heaven." "No thanks Reverend," replied the boy, "you don't even know the way to the post office."

I asked my cousin Maureen Tully why her husband John was lying down on the livingroom sofa. "I think it's spring fever — he caught it in the spring of '79." My friend Felix D'Amore of Wakefield is only five feet tall. He had to give up painting hydrants — he kept falling off the step-ladder, then he became a salesman in a Mens department store, but that didn't "Suit" him, but he finally got a job he can do — Felix is a "short order cook" in a restaurant.

Boston's best "breakers" will demonstrate their techniques and perform dazzling routines to launch Cranberry World's extended weekday evening hours, now 9:30 A.M. to 9 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Cranberry World Visitors Center, located on Water Street in Plymouth, will be open weekday evenings for the first time in its seven years of operation on the Plymouth waterfront. The new extended hours, 9:30 A.M. to 9 P.M., will be effective weekdays from July 2 to August 24. The Center will also be open for its usual weekend hours, 9:30 A.M. — 5 P.M. during this time; hours will be 9:30 A.M. to 5 P.M. daily from August 25 to November 30.

Cranberry World is a free exhibit that explores the history and cultivation of the native American cranberry. Sponsored by Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., it is Stop Six on the Americana Trail and just a 10-minute walk from Plymouth Rock and the Mayflower II. Free parking for all visitors.

For further information on Cranberry World, call (617) 747-2350.

MOVIE REVIEWS Rochelle Flynn
"Streets of Fire"
TOM CODY (Michael Pare) finally confronts his enemy, Raven (Willen Dafoe).

you might have guessed, is the bad guy. Bedecked in leather overalls, this look alike for the local axe murderer chooses sledge hammers as weapons when he challenges Cody to a duel. Not someone you'd like to have in your car pool.

Actually, the sledge hammers aren't that surprising, considering Hill's heavy handed direction. Themes include oppressed youths trying to rise above it all, the decline and decadence of those left in a dying city, unfulfilled love and a general aura of hopelessness. Not a very cheery way to spend an afternoon, is it?

Hill, who directed the box office smash, "48 Hours," should at least be given credit for being innovative, as most of Hollywood's populace spends a lot of time on remakes, or carbon copies of last season's hits. The music is energetic and driving, and Hill employs surrealistic sets, as well as props from the 1950's and the 1980's to establish the fantasy. It is simply unfortunate that he overdoes everything. There are far too many gray days and rain splattered streets, too much aimless hatred and nothing with which to balance it. There is no crescendo of emotions during the climactic moments in this pseud-western, as no compassion is built for the characters.

If "Streets of Fire" is an example of what musicals have become, someone please coax Gene Kelly out of retirement. At least when he danced on a rain splattered street, he was happy.

New facilities dedicated

WOBURN — Dignitaries Congressman Edward Markey and Byron Battle, Massachusetts Undersecretary for International Trade, were on hand today to honor Vaisala, Inc. during dedication ceremonies of their new manufacturing facilities in Woburn. Established in 1981, Vaisala, Inc. is the subsidiary of Vaisala Oy in Helsinki, Finland. The fifty-year-old parent company is the world leader in meteorological instrumentation and produces a broad range of highly precise humidity sensing and measuring instruments. At the new Woburn plant, Vaisala, Inc. is manufacturing and assembling both components and complete products for sale and distribution throughout North America.

Congressman Markey praised Vaisala's new facility and their relationship to the residential community as a "non-toxic, non-polluting manufacturer." Byron Battle described Vaisala, Inc. as an excellent example of the mutually beneficial relationship between the area's high tech firms and the state's research and educational resources.

Yrjo Toivola, Managing Director of Vaisala Oy was also present for the dedication and complimented Vaisala President Steven Chansky on the company's rapid growth and expansion, from its original offices occupying 2500 square feet to the new 12 thousand square foot facility staffed by 40 employees from Woburn and other local communities.

Chansky, who established Vaisala, Inc. after leaving GCA Corporation, said in his dedication address, "I have never been more impressed by a company's dedication to quality and commitment to research and development. In fact, almost 20 percent of Vaisala's sales are reinvested each year in R & D."

US Representative Ed Markey greets officials of Vaisala's at their new facilities located in Woburn creamy garlic dressing and crunchy croutons.

To make the perfect green salad, pick the youngest, crispest greens available. Locally grown greens are certain to be fresh. Wash the greens in cold water and pay dry on paper towels. For the crispest salads, chill the greens several hours in a plastic bag. Add your dressing just before serving. About 1 tablespoon per cup of greens. Toss until all the greens are lightly coated.

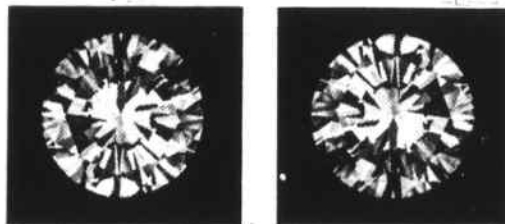

Here is a serving suggestion for using the many types of salad greens grown in Massachusetts. Don't let the title mislead you, this recipe is delicious anytime.

DIETER'S CHOICE

- 6 cups salad greens (Romaine, Boston, Bibb, escarole, chicory, spinach)
- 1/4 cup skim milk
- 1 tablespoon chopped scallions or chives
- 1 cup creamed cottage cheese
- 3 radishes
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

Wash and chill lettuce until ready to serve. Combine other ingredients, except radishes, in a blender container and process at high speed until smooth. Chill. Serve over lettuce greens. Makes 6 servings. (about 55 calories per serving).

Drama at its Best

"Widow's Blind Date", Israel Horowitz's dramatic new thriller, opens for its first major East Coast premiere June 27th at Boston University Theatre II. "Widow's Blind Date" is being produced by Next Move Theatre.

Israel Horowitz writes about small towns and their psychological impact on those who leave and those who stay. Horowitz was born in Wakefield where "Widow's Blind Date" is set. Among his best-known plays are: "The Indian Wants the Bronx", "Line", "It's Called the Sugar Plum", "Rats", "The Wakefield Plays" and "Park Your Car in Harvard Yard".

A beautiful 30-year widow, Margie Burke, returns to the small town where she has purposefully left her past. She renews her old acquaintance with schoolchums Archie Crisp and Georgie Ferguson. These best buddies work in the baling press of a newspaper company and spend their time drinking beer and reliving schoolboy affairs.

The sophisticated Margie comes into their lives playing off one against the other and creating a sexual rivalry with catastrophic results.

"Widow's Blind Date" opens for previews June 24, 25, 26 and runs through July 22. Opening night is June 27th at 7:30 PM. Tickets are available at the box office at 264 Huntington Avenue, Boston. For box office information, call 266-3913.

MUSIC

The Eighth Annual Series of summer recitals will be given on the 37-bell carillon in Phillips Academy's Memorial Tower on six successive Tuesday evenings, beginning July 3 at 7:00 PM. The first recital will feature Sally Slade Warner, carillonneur of Phillips Academy, playing a varied program including original music for carillon, arrangement of familiar melodies and transcriptions.

The public is invited free of charge. Bring lawn chairs, blankets and picnic suppers. Printed programs and brochures about the carillon will be available in the stand at the tower door. The best listening places will be noted on the back of the program. In case of rain, listen from your parked car. The tower is located at the corner of Main (Route 28) and Salem Streets, Andover, just south of the business district.

Future recitalists in this year's series will include Geert D'hollander, carillonneur of Sint-Niklaas, Belgium; Todd Fair, carillonneur of the West Church in Amsterdam, Holland; Aime Lombaert, adjunct-carillonneur of Brugge, Belgium; and Gerard de Waardt, carillonneur of Maassluis, Holland.

Once again the Kool Jazz Festival offers a wonderful and varied musical weekend at the Saratoga, NY Performing Arts Center. On Saturday, June 30 and Sunday, July 1, from noon to midnight, over 25 star-studded performances will be presented. On the Main Stage and Gazebo, in a pleasant atmosphere among trees and grassy lawns, festivalgoers will hear jazz and blues greats such as Gladys Knight and Pips, The Crusaders, B.B. King, Mel Torme, Al Jarreau, Spyro Gyra, Dizzy Gillespie and Stan Getz.

Tickets for the Saratoga event can be obtained at all Ticketron agencies 212/977-9020, by phone through Chagrit 212/944-9300 or Tele-tron 212/947-5850 or by calling the Saratoga Performing Arts Center 518/587-3330.

The line-up for the Concerts on the Boston Common are as follows: Go-Go's - Friday, June 29; Jimmy Buffet - Tuesday, July 3; Al Jarreau - Thursday, July 5; Moody Blues - Friday, July 13; Everly Brothers - Monday, July 30; Chicago - Tuesday, August 7; Ella Fitzgerald/Oscar Peterson - Friday, August 10; Julio Iglesias - Tuesday, August 14; James Taylor with Randy Newman - Wednesday, August 15; Huey Lewis and the News - Tuesday, August 21; Thompson Twins - Tuesday, August 28; Herb Alpert - Thursday, August 30; George Benson - Sunday, September 9. All concerts begin at 6 PM.

FESTIVAL

The third week of July is Vermont Quilt Festival Week and the traditional art of quilting will be celebrated with the Vermont Quilt Festival. The festival, New England's largest quilt event, will be held July 20, 21 & 22 on the campus of Norwich University in Northfield, Vermont.

Over fifty workshops and lectures with nationally known and New England quiltmakers will be offered throughout the weekend. Appraisal services for antique quilts will be available on June 21 and 22. Antique and new quilts will be for sale, along with quilting supplies, books and fabric. For further information, write Vermont Quilt Festival, Box 349P, Northfield, Vermont 05663.

From Andover's carillon to Vermont's quilts, on the Common or in Saratoga, COMING ATTRACTIONS tries to present something for everyone. But if you know of an event of interest to all that we have overlooked, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. Music, theater, festivals, we like just about anything.

Local Barbershop Chorus medalists

On April 28, 1984 at Symphony Hall in Springfield, Ma., Sweet Adelines Inc., Region I held their 1984 Barbershop Quartet and Chorus Competition. Of over thirty choruses in Region I, twenty-seven competed, from Canada, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York, with the 1st Place Medal going to the Farmington Valley Chapter, Simsbury, Ct., 2nd Place Medal to Yankee Maid Chapter, Wilton, Ct., and the 3rd Place Medal going to Merrimack Valley Chapter, Andover, Ma.

In their medal-winning competition presentation Merrimack Valley, under the able direction of Karen Mozykowski of Lowell, Ma., sang and danced to "I Never Knew", and "up-tune," (one with a fast beat,) and finished with a new ballad entitled "Kiss Me One More Time" by Norma Anderson, herself a Sweet Adeline from Illinois. As medalists, the Merrimack Valley Chapter also appeared Saturday evening in the "Show of Champions."

A chorus of 70 women from hometowns as widely separated as Brookline, Ma. and North Franklin, N.H., (but generally from the Greater Lowell area,) the Chapter meets every Thursday evening at 7:30 P.M. in the Ballardville United Church, Clark Road, Andover, Ma.

Womens Barbershop Choruses, like Barbershop Quartets, sing a cappella in four-part harmony. Unlike most voice requirements for public singing, non-soloist quality voices are excellent for choruses. Chorus singers do need to be able to sing on pitch, and hold their own when singing next to a voice singing another part. Reading music helps, but is not necessary.

Sing a chorus can always improve no matter how good they are. Merrimack Valley is always looking for new voices to join in the harmony and fellowship of barbershop singing. Women interested in trying out the feel of standing on the risers and adding to the chords sung may join the Chapter on June 28, 1984 at 7:30 P.M., or any Thursday evening.

Sweet Adelines Inc. is a non-profit organization dedicated to service to the community through singing (Nursing Homes, etc.) fellowship, and harmony. If you have any questions about joining or if you wish to have the chorus perform at your next function, benefit or fund-raiser, please contact Carol Lynch, 256-5131.

"Widow's Blind Date"

Don't leave children unprotected

For most of us, summer is a time of vacations. Maybe you're planning a stay at the seashore, or a quiet couple of weeks in the cottage near the lake. Or perhaps a trip overseas is in the cards for you.

If your summer plans mean that you'll be separated from your kids, even for a brief period, there is something important to consider before you leave," says Richard S. Quinlan, executive director of the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, Melrose.

"I'm referring to the question of medical treatment for children under 18 years of age, who cannot be treated without the permission of a parent," explained Mr. Quinlan. "Each year at this time we urge parents to fill out a Consent Form for Medical Treatment of Minors so that their child would promptly receive the full treatment he or she needed in the event of an emergency large or small."

These forms are available free of charge at the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital, 585 Lebanon Street, Melrose. Further information may be obtained by contacting the hospital at 662-7200, ext. 3507.

Inventing the packet-switched computer network was a ground-breaking accomplishment for us at BBN. Now we're announcing another — our new manufacturing facility rising on a pretty wooded site off Rt. 3 in Technology Park in Billerica. Complete with exercise room, picnic grounds and other conveniences, it should accommodate our phenomenal growth for years to come. We plan to move in early next year. But our staffing needs can't wait. Start with us here in Cambridge and enjoy the excitement of a dynamic young industry leader, an atmosphere of achievement, and excellent benefits like a stock purchase plan, a medical insurance/HMO option, dental insurance, 3 weeks' vacation and retirement trust and educational assistance programs. Then move with us to Billerica and keep building your career from there.

QUALITY ASSURANCE INSPECTORS ALL LEVELS

You will perform non-routine inspection of computer components and systems. Areas include incoming inspection, in-process inspection and final system acceptance. # Crabapple Anti-Computer Club looks for converts

Club's founder rejects hard-sell for home computers based on "buy one or your child won't excel" ad campaign

By David Clark Scott

Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Wellesley, Mass.

Steven M. Stroum is sour on home computers. So much so, he's established the "Crabapple Anti-Computer Club" in an attempt to cultivate a whole orchard of dissenters.

I don't think there is a real need for computers in the home, states the soft-spoken father. Of computer makers, he says, "In their attempts to create that need, that market, they've gone overboard in their advertising messages."

Sure, he agrees, there are instances where computers can be useful at home — assisting disabled children or tapping into financial investment services — "but for the masses, no one has identified a legitimate need for home computers."

In fact, manufacturers are voicing just that concern. Philip C. Restagno, senior vice president at Atari quoted in a June 4 New York Times article, said, "Everyone was persuaded that all we had to do was provide the computer and that consumers knew what they would do with them. Clearly, this wasn't the case. There is only so far you can go with intimidation, with telling the public that if you don't buy your kid a computer he'll grow up to be an idiot."

This may in part account for projections of slower home computer sales this year. Earlier this month, Infocorp, a Cupertino, Calif., market-research firm, cut in half its October prediction that 4.6 million home computers would be sold in 1984.

It was the intimidation tactics that triggered Stroum's efforts. One evening last fall, Stroum says he was stretched out on the couch, watching TV. His five-year-old son was playing nearby. A commercial appeared showing Dad and a toddler playing with a Texas Instruments computer.

Stroum 'respects' computers, has one in his outer office

"I was disgusted by it," he says. "The tone and implication was that you were going to be a poor parent — sentencing your child to a menial life if you don't get on this bandwagon. That is irresponsible advertising."

While upset by the sales tactics, Mr. Stroum is not totally against children using computers. There may be a use for computers in school after the third grade, he says, but not until then. "I have my degree in behavioral science. And I feel the most important part of a child's development in that age category [pre-fourth grade] is socialization and you learn to socialize by interfacing with other human beings."

Stroum is the president of a sales development firm located near the "Silicon Belt" buckled around Boston. Some of his clients are high-tech companies. "I've been involved with computers for a decade. I have utmost respect for them. I have one in my outer office."

But he says "it is a myth that without a computer, my kid is going to be left behind. By the time my son is in high school the interactive process with computers is going to be so much simpler — user friendly — he not going to need any specialized software knowledge."

Members of Stroum's club pay $19 to receive a newsletter, "Living and Computing," every other month. "The intent is to develop awareness about the social impact of increasing computerization," he says.

The first two issues include the pros and cons, by psychologists, of whether children need computers; an "Afterbyte" column for those already "stung by the computer bug;" and an account of an "US" magazine story on the Crabapple Club.

Stroum says it was killed by the parent company, Warner Communications, because, and Stroum quotes the writer: "Atari's [another Warner subsidiary] business isn't going so well and they don't want any adverse publicity about home computers."

Nonetheless, Stroum has been disappointed by the general public's lack of distaste for home computing. The club has 32 members but most are educators and high-tech professionals.

Is suntan pill safe?

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

If you won't be heading to the beach, mountains or resort this summer to soak up some sun, you might be tempted to try "suntan pills" for a tanned appearance. But before you try any of them, you might want to pay heed to the advice Consumer Reports magazine medical experts offered in response to a question about the drug.

A reader of Consumer Reports magazine asked if the suntan pills would really give you a tan and if they were safe to use. The medical experts said the pills would indeed give you a tanned look, but they added that the pills weren't necessarily safe.

Most of the so-called "tanning pills" contain synthetic versions of two natural dyes: beta carotene (found in carrots, peaches and other fruits and vegetables) and canthaxanthin (found in brine shrimp, some algae and other forms of marine life).

However, our medical experts say no evidence has thus far been submitted to establish the long-term safety of these two chemicals in the quantities needed to color the skin.

The pills "tan" by overwhelming your body's ability to excrete these two dyes. As a result, some of the color accumulates in your skin, as well as in your blood, liver and other organs.

Although the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approves both dyes as additives to color foods and drugs, the amount of dye used in the pills is great enough that the FDA considers them illegal and has seized several shipments.

CONSUMER REPORTS medical experts had more encouraging advice for a pregnant owner of three cats. She wanted to know whether she could contract the disease toxoplasmosis from cat litter or handling of her cats.

The woman said she had heard that this disease could be transmitted to her unborn child and could be severe or even fatal. She asked if good hygiene would provide adequate protection or if she could contract the disease by inhaling infecting germs when she was close to the cats or the litter.

Our medical experts say that transmission of toxoplasmosis from the feces of an infected cat commonly involves inadvertent hand-to-mouth contact. There is no evidence that the infection — caused by a parasitic organism — can occur via the respiratory system.
